Film Summaries

Abidjan Mamiwater Shrine

Ghana. 1997. 62 minutes. Color. DVD.

Produced by Kathleen O'Brien and Kofi Asare Opoku.

In Ewe and English.

This documentary was filmed at the Abidjan Mamiwater Village Shrine located on the banks of the Volta River in the Eastern Region, Ghana. It documents the Fetototro, the annual festival of the Divinities, celebrated at the village in 1994, and the Nutikloklo Kpe Konu, purification ritual conducted on the occasion of the death of Togbi, Abidjan Mamiwater's wife in 1993. This video is part of Priesthood and Ritual in Ghana Series. See also Moree Maame Water.

Abouna

2002. 84 minutes. DVD

French and Arabic with English subtitles.

When their errant father abandons them, 15 year-old Tahir and his younger brother Amine, are sent to an Islamic school in a distant village. The brothers attempt to adapt to the authoritarian environment but grow restless as they yearn for their father. A film sprinkled with moments of great tenderness and comic flourishes, and exquisitely photographed using a palette of saturated primary colors and earth tones, the award-winning Abouna offers a fascinating glimpse into a world rarely represented in cinema.

Adama-The Fulani Magician

Burkina Faso. 2001. 22 minutes. DVD

Directed by Taale Laafi Rosellini.

Adama Hamidou, a renowned deaf West African street performer and practitioner of the ancient Yan-Taori sword magic tradition, spreads wonder and delight among the people of Ouagadougou, Burkina Faso. As a deaf man, Adama has found a unique way, witty means of communication. Ritual and tradition unfold as Adama prepares himself for magic. The film is an intimate portrait of the man and his culture through both performance sequences and interview in which Adama tells his own story in West African sign language.

Africa

2001. (4x 120minutes + 60 minute bonus tape). DVD.

This epic series presents Africa through the eyes of its people, conveying the diversity and beauty of the land and the compelling personal stories of the people who shape its future. Africa is divided into 8 episodes plus a 60 minute video on the making of the series. In order, the episodes are titled:

1. Savanna Homecoming

Witness the splendor of East Africa's golden plains in this story of two women and their journeys between bustling cities and rural landscapes. Through these personal tales, set against a backdrop of age-old animal migrations, you'll experience urban and traditional life in the magnificent land known as the cradle of humankind.

2. Desert Odyssey

Examine the harsh beauties of the Sahara through the eyes of a nine-year-old boy as he embarks on his first camel caravan. Following time-honored Tuareg tradition, the boy and the men of his village make a 1,500-mile, six-month trek that provides an opportunity for commerce and serves as a voyage of discovery.

3. Voices of the Forest

The dense, mysterious rain forest of Central Africa's Congo River Basin is home to the Baka people and a complex variety of plants and animals. But the logging of its old-growth timber by outside interests could endanger the rain forest itself, threaten Baka villages, and have an adverse impact on a local business.

4. Mountains of Faith

Discover Ethiopia's rugged beauty and ancient traditions in a tale tracing the lives of two ambitious young men on the brink of manhood. Follow a precocious entrepreneur on his annual pilgrimage from the cosmopolitan capital to a time-honored celebration in his family's rural village. Then join another young man as he embarks on a spiritual journey deep in the Horn of Africa.

5. Love in the Sahel

Near the edge of the desolate and wind-swept Sahara, two young men participate in age-old rituals guided by nature's complex rhythms. But despite their different backgrounds, both youths have the same goal: to make a successful passage into manhood and become full-fledged members of their respective communities.

6. Restless Waters

In the midst of Africa's fertile heartlands, on Lake Victoria, the continent's largest lake...a man is about to risk his family's savings for a chance at a better future. Meanwhile, 500 miles away, in the Kilombero Valley, another family's fortune is at the mercy of the elements.

7. Leopards of Zanzibar

On the sunny island of Zanzibar, off Africa's eastern coast, an amateur soccer team has qualified to compete in a championship match on the mainland. But in a place still tied to the past, these men, who make their living from the sea, discover that keeping pace with modern changes can help them reach their goal.

8. Southern Treasures

Since Apartheid's dramatic downfall in 1994, South Africans from all walks of life have embarked on a remarkable journey in search of a new future. Witness their efforts and challenges through the eyes of young women seeking new careers, miners struggling in a changing industry, and indigenous peoples reclaiming a storied past.

Africa Dreaming

1997. Four shorts each 26 minutes. DVD

Producer: Jeremy Nathan

French, Arabic, and Portuguese with English subtitles:

1. Sophia's Homecoming (Namibia)

The story of a female domestic worker returning home after 12 years to find that her marriage and family have split apart.

2. Sabriyah (Tunisia)

A young, modern woman disrupts life in a male dominated Maghrebi society.

3. The Gaze of the Stars (Mozambique)

A story about machismo so powerful that it drives away whatever it loves by trying to control it.

4. So Be It (Senegal)

An adaptation of Wole Soyinka's play The Strong Breed. A foreign doctor wrestles with his desire to bring modernity to a remote Senegalese village and the futility of trying to change a community committed to its traditional practices of human sacrifice.

African American Heritage (American Cultures for Children)

1997. 25 minutes. DVD.

Producer: A. Schlessinger, hosted by Phylicia Rashad.

Focuses on the diverse geography and cultures of West Africa as well as the history of African Americans. Explores the historical connections between Africa and the diaspora, but neglects to explain the cultural similarities. Includes suggestions for activities such as making Adinkra cloth from Ghana, teaching Yoruba greetings from Nigeria, counting from 1-10 in More from Burkina Faso, and reading Anansi stories. Suggested for grades K-4.

African Dance

90 minutes. DVD.

African Dance Performance

90 minutes. DVD

African Dance Studio Shoot

90 minutes. DVD

African Folktales: Grades K-4

This is a series of stories, songs & slides produced by Dr. Harriet Masembe.

African Plays

100 minutes. VHS DVD

Student plays from the 6th annual University of Wisconsin-Madison Summer Cooperative African Language Institute. Each play is in a different African language. Featured languages: Chichewa, Hausa, Swahili, and Wolof.

Africans: A Triple Heritage, The

1986. 9x 60 minutes. VHS DVD

A video instructional series on African cultures for college and high school classrooms and adult learners. Look back into the history of Africa to examine major influences on this complex continent: indigenous heritage, Western culture, and the Islamic religion. It explores Africa's geography, history, anthropology and religions. Discover the rich diversity of Africa and confront the problems that have resulted from different forms of government.

1. The Nature of a Continent

Examines Africa as a birthplace of humankind and discusses the impact of geography on African history, including the role of the Nile in the origin of civilization and the introduction of Islam to Africa through its Arabic borders.

2. A Legacy of Lifestyles

Shows how contemporary African lifestyles are influenced by indigenous, Islamic, and Western factors. Compares simple African societies with those that are more complex and centralized, and examines the importance of family life.

3. New Gods (only VHS)

Examines the factors that influence religion in Africa, with particular emphasis on how traditional African religions, Islam, and Christianity coexist and influence each other. The extent to which Christianity and Islam are becoming Africanized is also discussed.

4. Tools of Exploitation

The impact of the West on Africa and the impact of Africa on the development of the West are contrasted with an emphasis on the manner in which Africa's human and natural resources have been exploited before, during, and after the colonial period.

5. New Conflicts

Explores the tensions inherent in the juxtaposition of three African heritages, looking at the ways in which these conflicts have contributed to the rise of the nationalist movement, the warrior tradition of indigenous Africa, the jihad tradition of Islam, and modern guerrilla warfare.

6. In Search of Stability

Gives an overview of the several means of governing in Africa. Examines new social orders to illustrate an Africa in search of a viable form of government in the postindependence period.

7. A Garden of Eden in Decay

Identifies the problems of a continent that produces what it does not consume and consumes what it does not produce. Shows Africa's struggle between economic dependence and decay.

8. A Clash of Cultures

Discusses the conflicts and compromises which emerge from the coexistence of many African traditions and modern life. Explores the question of whether Africa can synthesize its own heritage with the legacies of Islam and the West.

9. Global Africa

Discusses African contributions to contemporary culture, including the significance of the African diaspora, particularly in North America. Also examines the continuing influence of the superpowers on the affairs of Africa.

Afro-Digital

Congo/France. 2003. 52 minutes. DVD

French with English subtitles.

Directed by Balufu Bakupa-Kanyinda.

This documentary explores how digital technology has changed the lives of Africans and raises challenging questions about the use of technology in music, film, fashion, traditional practices, education, and politics.

Ainsi Meurent Les Anges (And So Angels Die)

Senegal. 2001. 56 minutes. DVD

French and Wolof with English subtitles.

Directed by Moussa Sene Absa.

This follows the story of Mory, a poet living in Paris with his French wife and children, as the story explores a marriage under cultural pressure and the true reasons Mory left Africa for France. A story of literal and metaphorical exile and a testament to the vitality of Senegalese filmmaking.

All about Darfur

Sudan/United Kingdom. 2005. 82 minutes. DVD

Arabic and English with English subtitles.

Directed by Taghreed Elsanhoury.

Producer/Director Taghreed Elsanhoury talks with ordinary Sudanese in outdoor tea shops, markets, refugee camps, and living rooms about how deeply rooted prejudices could suddenly burst into a wild fire of ethnic violence. During this journey, Elsanhoury discovers that race, despite its significance, may be too crude a concept to understand Sudan's bitter ethnic conflict and explains how racial fault lines have become the dividing boundaries between groups battling for scarce economic resources.

Amandla! A Revolution in Four-Part Harmony

2002. DVD

The story of black South African freedom music and the central role it played against apartheid. The first film to specifically consider the music that sustained and galvanized black South Africans for more than 40 years. The focus is on the struggles spiritual dimension, as articulated and embodied in song. Named for the Xhosa word for "power," Amandla! Lives up to its title, telling an uplifting story of human courage, resolve and triumph.

American Idealist: The Story of Sargent Shriver

2008. 86 minutes. DVD

Directed by Bruce Orenstein

In the shadow of the war in Vietnam and assassinations and rebellion at home, Sargent Shriver launched a string of social inventions and arguably touched more lives than any leader since Franklin D. Roosevelt. Shriver opened pathways for hundreds of thousands of young people to make a difference – Peace Corps, VISTA, Head Start, Community Action, and Legal Services for the Poor. His story reveals a forgotten and inspiring side of the Sixties. It reawakens hope for what America can be and do when young people are challenged to act on their ideals.

Bab El-Oued City

Algeria. 1994. 93 minutes. DVD

In Arabic with English subtitles.

Directed by Merzak Allouache.

The film takes place in a decaying neighborhood, Bab El-Oued. The central character in this scary drama is Boualem, a young baker. Throughout his neighborhood the fundamentalists, locally led by the fanatical Said, have placed loud-speakers upon the rooftops to broadcast their hateful propaganda. Unable to stand the noise any longer, Boualem destroys a speaker and tosses it into the sea. Said promptly seeks to mow him down for his impudence. Said's sister, a liberal who resents having to wear a veil and behave in traditional ways, has been seeing Boualem. He loses his job after Said pushes his boss, who actually despises Said, but fears retaliation, to fire him. Surrounding the main plot are many sub stories, each of which sharply illustrates the dangers of fundamentalism. ~ Sandra Brennan, All Movie Guide

Bamako

Mali/France. 2006. 117 minutes. DVD

In French and Bambara with English subtitles.

Directed by Abderrahmane Sissako

An historic trial is taking place in a residential courtyard in Bamako, the capital city of Mali. African citizens have taken proceedings against such financial institutions as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, whom they blame for perpetuating Africa's debt crisis. As numerous trial witnesses air bracing indictments against the global economic machinery that haunts them, life in the courtyard presses forward. Bar singer Melé and her unemployed husband Chaka are on the verge of breaking up; a security guard's gun goes missing; a young man lies ill; a wedding procession passes through; and women dye fabric.

Bambara Kingdom of Segou, The (Mali)

Mali. 1992. 19 minutes. DVD

Produced by Films for the Humanities & Sciences.

From the cover: In this program, we learn something of the past of the Bambara, and we can imagine more from the extraordinary architecture of their ancient villages. A large and flourishing culture, the Bambara lived by collecting enslaved Africans and reselling them to North Africa and the Western Hemisphere; when the slave trade was abolished in Europe, the economic decline of the Bambara followed. As new economic bases were created, a new Bambara civilization emerged, which has retained the artistic vigor of its forebears.

Baobab

2000. 25 minutes. VHS.

French with English subtitles.

Directed by Laurence Attali.

It all started with a dream: "It's time for you to try to explain the mysteries! Find the griot who'll bring you to me, and when you recognize me, circle around me three times, caress me with buttermilk, and let me know what you want. But be careful: don't forget the buttermilk!" That's how I was drawn into the baobab's spirit. It was in the year 2000....

Black Mans Land Trilogy

1986. 3x 52 minutes. DVD

Directed by Anthony Howarth and David Koff.

Images of colonialism and independence in Kenya.

1. White Man's Country

Covers the violence of colonial rule, white settlement and African resistance in the story of Kenya, as the British tried to make it a 'white man's country' like South Africa or New Zealand. Land was allocated, settlers welcomed, and the 'jewel of the British empire' was born. But it was African land that was taken, African labor that was used to develop it, and African taxes that kept the colonial regime solvent. How did Africans confront this process? White Man's Country combines period photographs and contemporary location footage with the testimony of African and European witnesses.

2. Mau Mau

In October 1952 the British government declared a State of Emergency in Kenya in order to defeat Mau Mau. In the war that followed, fewer than 40 of 40,000 white settlers were killed while more than 15,000 Africans lost their lives and hundreds of thousands more were arrested and subjected to a humiliating and often brutal process of rehabilitation. Using newsreel and previously inaccessible archive footage, and drawing on interviews with participants on both sides, this film examines the myth and reality of Africa's first modern guerrilla war.

3. Kenyatta

Jomo Kenyatta's death in 1978 brought to an end a political career that encompassed more than 50 years of African history. Kenyatta entered politics in the mid-1920s and then spent 17 years in exile in Europe. He returned to Kenya in 1946, and in 1947 took over leadership of the Kenya African Union. Arrested and imprisoned in 1952 in the wake of the mau mau uprising, he was released in 1961 and two years later became Kenya's first Prime Minister. In power, the man whom Europeans had once reviled as the leader to darkness and death was eulogized by them as a pillar of stability. This film weaves archival and contemporary images with interviews with friends and relatives, comrades and opponents to create a biographical portrait of a key figure in 20th century politics, and a case study of nationalism as a political force in Africa.

Black Sash: The Early Years

VHS DVD

Bling: A Planet Rock; Blood, Diamonds, and Hip-Hop

2007. 87 minutes. DVD

Directed by Raquel Cepeda

In this film, a few of hip-hop's finest – Raekwon of Wu-Tang Clan, Paul Wall, and Tego Calderon – travel to war-torn Sierra Leone, West Africa, and come face to face with the real cost of bling. They meet people who've been affected by conflict or "blood" diamonds, including miners, amputees, and former child soldiers. Featuring Ishmael Beah, best-selling author of A Long Way Gone: Memoris of a Boy Soldier and interviews with Kanye West, Big Daddy Kane, Jadakiss and Juelz Santana. BLING is without questions one of the most powerful films you will ever see.

Bye Bye Africa

Chad. 1999. 86 minutes. DVD

Arabic and French with English subtitles.

Directed by Mahamat-Saleh-Haroun.

This first feature film from Chad brings the reflexive filmmaking of Fellini's 8 and Truffat's Day for Night to African cinema. Director Mahamat-Saleh Haroun presents what he calls a "documentary fiction" but which might just as well be called a fictional documentary about making of a film of the same name, Bye-Bye Africa. This focus on the process of filmmaking makes Bye-Bye Africa one of the first films to address the technical and economic difficulties of film production in Africa while at the same time demonstrating the potential of new digital video technology.

Ça twisté à Poponguine

Senegal. 1993. 90 minutes. DVD

French with English subtitles.

Directed by Moussa Sene Absa.

This film is about the transition from youth to adulthood in a small fishing village in Senegal. Compared to American Graffiti or Crooklyn, this film is very accessible to a wide range of audiences.

Clando

1996. DVD

Proud and determined, the hunter set out, leaving behind his village ravaged by a terrible drought. All the villagers came out to wish him well, and everyone gave what he could: an egg, a handful of peanuts or a few kola nuts... As in the folktale, Sobgui, a former computer programmer who now drives a "clando" cab in Douala, flees to Europe to escape a life in Cameroon which has become unbearable. In Cologne (Germany), Sobgui joins a community of African emigrants. Most are hard-working and ambitious people. Sobgui begins a love affair with Madeleine, a German political activist who encourages Sobgui and his friends to return home and fight for change

Come Back Africa: South African Cinema in the Fifties

South Africa. 1959. 81 minutes. DVD

Directed by Lionel Rogosin, Villon Films.

A classic anti-apartheid docudrama, Come Back Africa, is about a young man who leaves the country for the city. But what happens to Zachariah, the migrant-worker hero of the film, is far from the fantasy world of the earlier films by the same director.

Conakry Kas

2004. 82 minutes. VHS DVD

English subtitles.

Directed by Manthia Diawara.

Director Manthia Diawara visited Guinea, his adopted country, in 2003 to see how the country and its artists and intellectuals have fared since the cultural revolution that began shortly after independence in 1958.

Congo: White King, Red Rubber, Black Death

2004. 90 minutes. DVD

Directed by Peter Bate.

Describes how King Leopold II of Belgium turned Congo into its private colony between 1885 and 1908. Under his control, Congo became a gulag labor camp of shocking brutality. The Belgian government has denounced this documentary as a "tendentious diatribe" for depicting King Leopold II as the moral forebear of Adolf Hitler, responsible for the death of 10 million people in his rapacious exploitation of the Congo. Yet, it is agreed today that the first Human Rights movement was spurred by what happened in the Congo.

Corruptababble

DVD

Corruption! The allegation trips off the lips of commentators across the board, especially in discussion of the poorest parts of the world. Are corrupt greedy regimes and warlords so widespread? Should developing countries be monitored and measured for their application of "good governance" to stem corrupt tendencies? Is poverty the product of third world gangsters, thieving politicians and corporate fraudsters? No, but our obsession with corruption is endemic. So say Brendon and Yolanda, two young South Africans who, on their first visit to the UK, are told by newfound workmates that "living in such a corrupt country must be awful." The youngsters are appalled and decide to unravel the babble that they see as wrong, ridiculous and racist.

Daresalam

Chad. 2000. 105 minutes. DVD

Arabic and French with English subtitles.

Directed by Issa Serge Coelo.

Daresalam is the first African feature film to focus on the civil wars convulsing the continent from Sierra Leone to Somalia. It provides compelling insights into how ordinary people around the world get swept up in extraordinary events. Its timeless story of two childhood friends turned into political foes personalizes the terrible costs of internecine strife. Daresalam is not only director Issa Serge Coelo's first feature film but along with Bye-Bye Africa the first feature films from Chad.

Darfur Diaries: Message from Home

2004. 55 minutes. DVD

English.

A brutally honest inside look into the current tragedy befalling the Darfur region.

Darwin's Nightmare

2004. DVD

Forty years ago, a voracious predator is introduced into the waters of Tanzania's lake Victoria where it quickly extinguishes the entire stock of native fish. Its ecological impact aside, the Nile Perch becomes highly prized for its tender, plumb filets, barely meeting the demand at elegant 4- star European restaurants.

Day of the Zulu

60 minutes. DVD

Directed by Mark Lewis.

During the Anglo-Zulu wars in South Africa, the success of small British regiments against huge numbers of native warriors became the stuff of legend. But in one key 1879 battle, Zulu fighting units known as Impis decimated the British forces at the battle of Isandlwana. Historian Ian Knight and forensic anthropologist Tony Pollard investigate the battle scene, trying to assess the impact of a solar eclipse on the outcome and discovering the Zulu use of performance enhancing "battle drugs" that included cannabis and a powerful hallucinogenic mushroom. New evidence reveals the changing tide of the battle, the innovative strategy of the Zulu and one critical, irreversible British mistake.

Debt of Dictators, The

2005. 46 minutes. DVD

Directed by Erling Borgen.

This film exposes the irresponsible lending to brutal dictators by multinational financial institutions. Revealing the widespread impoverishment resulting from these debts, the film transports viewers to Argentina, South Africa, and the Philippines, where essential services have been sacrificed in order to repay these illegitimate loans. In each of the cases, the government pays more in servicing the foreign debts than it does on all essential social services combined.

Delta Force

Diro and His Talking Musical Bow & Dance of the Bella

Burkina Faso. 2001. 11 minutes each. DVD

Diro and His Talking Musical Bow provides a portrait of West African musician Diro Dah, who gathers materials from nature to construct, tune and play a new Kankarama (musical bow). Using music to imitate the rising and falling tones of Lor (the language of the Lobi people), Diro delightfully engages village children in a hide-and-seek game with his talking bow.

Dance of the Bella is an entrancing film of dance performed to humming and hand-clapping on the southern reaches of the Sahara desert. The Bella people, having survived seven years of drought and famine, dance at dusk celebrating the major Islamic feast, Tabasky (Id al-Adha)

Dokwaza: Last of the African Iron Masters

Produced/Directed by Dr. Nicolas David.

Documents the ancient practices of iron smelting from raw ore in Cameroon. University of Calgary, Department of Communications Media.

Dôlè (Money)

Gabon. 2001. 80 minutes. DVD

Directed by Imunga Ivanga.

This film reveals that whether in Libreville, Gabon, or in America's own inner cities and suburbs, the underlying causes of youthful disaffection can be remarkably similar. The main character of the film, Mougler, seems almost to be a sociological study of a ghetto youth slipping into a life of petty crime with his friends. For people like Mougler living on the margins of the emerging global economy, a lottery can seem like their only hope for financial success. In Dôlè we see how the media cynically collaborate with the lottery to divert desperate people's economic aspirations into a spectacle, a contemporary combination of Abread and circus. When the boys decide to up their odds by robbing the lottery kiosk this gentle comedy turns tragic.

Duara

Tanzania. 2002. 24 minutes. DVD

Kiswahili with English subtitles.

A pilot project for the West Virginia State College – University of Dar es Salaam filmmaking program, TeleDrum, this film is a love story between two schoolmates, Yusufu and Mariam. The two lovers, oblivious in their love, face the fateful consequences of opening their intimate duara (circle in Kiswahili).

Eritrean Artists in War and Peace

Eritrea. 1997. 56 minutes. VHS DVD

Directed by Brian Varaday.

Focuses on the esthetic development of twelve artist-fighters in Eritrea, whose contemporary art movement was initiated by the Eritrean People's Liberation Front during their thirty-year struggle for liberation from Ethiopian control. Between major offensives, they created drawings, paintings and posters which portrayed war suffering as well as compassion and hope. These artists interviewed by Betty LaDuke, artist and professor of art, in their homes and work environments.

Everyone's Child

1996. DVD

Everyone's Child tells the story of four siblings, Itai, Tamari, Norah and Nhamo, whose parents have both died of AIDS. After a traditional funeral, the villagers, ignoring custom, shun the orphans because of the stigma of AIDS. Their guardian, Uncle Ozias, a struggling small businessman, sells the family's plow and oxen to pay off their father's debts. Without the means to support themselves, the family inevitably disintegrates.

Ezra

2007. DVD

Ezra is the first film to give an African perspective on the disturbing phenomenon of abducting child soldiers into the continent's recent civil wars. Ezra is structured around the week-long questioning of a 16 year old boy, Ezra, before a version of the Truth and Reconciliation Commissions, created in Sierra Leone in 2002 in the wake of its decade long civil war. This hearing is then inter-cut with chronological flashbacks to pivotal moments during Ezra's ten years in the rebel faction which made him who he is.

Sudan. 1989. 53 minutes. DVD

Nuba and Arabic with English subtitles.

Directed by Arthur Howes and Amy Hardie

Shot in 1989, Kafi's story, captures Nuba life at the moment before it was engulfed in the Sudanese civil war. Kafi narrates his own story into a portable tape recorder as he travels from his village, Torogi, to Khartoum to earn enough money to buy a new dress for his second wife, Tete. This film, along with Nuba Conversations, exposes a human rights tragedy of epic proportions which has remained invisible to the rest of the world: the deliberate destruction of the ancient Nuba civilization by the Islamic fundamentalist regime in Sudan.

Karmen Geï

Senegal. 2001. 82 minutes. DVD

French and Wolof with English subtitles.

Directed by Joseph Gaï Ramaka.

Like every Carmen, Karmen Geï is about the infinite desire for freedom and the laws, conventions, languages, the human limitations which constrain that desire. Karmen transgresses every convention - legal, cultural and moral. In one of his boldest strokes, director Joseph Gaï Ramaka makes Karmen bisexual. She escapes from prison through her lesbian relationship with the warden. Then she wrecks the marriage and career of a police officer by making him her lover and co-conspirator in a smuggling ring.

Keïta: The Heritage of the Griot

Burkina Faso. 1994. 94 minutes. DVD

Jula and French with English subtitles.

Directed by Dani Kouyate.

Introduces Americans to one of the most important works of African oral literature, The Sundjata Epic. The film frames its dramatization of this legend within the story of a contemporary young African's initiation into the history of his family. When a griot arrives at the home of the young man and recounts the story surrounding his heritage and name, the boy and griot are brought into conflict with westernized values symbolized by conflicts with his mother and teacher.

Kirikou and the Sorceress

1998. 74 minutes. DVD

An entertaining fantasy story adapted from a West African folktale by French Director Michel Ocelot. Kirikou, the hero, is a small but very smart boy who delivers his village from the threats of a dangerous witch by ridding her of her own inner pain.

Kirikou and the Wild Beast

Lost Boys of Sudan

2003. 87 minutes. DVD

Directed by Megan Mylan and Jon Shenk.

Lost Boys of Sudan is a feature-length documentary that follows two Sudanese refugees on an extraordinary journey from Africa to America. Orphaned as young boys in one of Africa's cruelest civil wars, Peter Dut and Santino Chuor survived lion attacks and militia gunfire to reach a refugee camp in Kenya along with thousands of other children. From there, remarkably, they were chosen to come to America. Safe at last from physical danger and hunger, a world away from home, they find themselves confronted with the abundance and alienation of contemporary American suburbia.

Lumumba

Democratic Republic of Congo. 2000. 115 minutes. DVD

French with English subtitles.

Directed by Raoul Peck.

Raoul Peck's Lumumba is a devastating political thriller following the events in the life of legendary African leader Patrice Emery Lumumba. Shot in Zimbabwe, Mozambique and Belgium as civil war once again raged in the Congo, the film recreates the shocking events behind the birth of the country that became Zaire during the reign of Joseph Mobutu.

Lumumba: Death of a Prophet

Congo. 1992. 70 minutes. DVD

French with English subtitles.

Directed by Raoul Peck. French with English subtitles

Patrice Emery Lumumba (1925-1961) was a political leader and the first prime minister of independent Zaire (now the Democratic Republic of the Congo). In 1958, he founded the Congolese National Movement (MNC) and called for immediate and total independence. He emerged as the most important leader of the movement, and when his party swept the elections, he led the country to independence on June 30, 1960.

Mandabi

1968. DVD

A money order from a relative in Paris throws the life of a Senegalese family man out of order. He deals with corruption, greed, problematic family members, the locals and the changing from his traditional way of living to a more modern one.

Mapantsula (Hustler)

South Africa. 1988. 104 minutes. DVD

English, Zulu, Sotho, and Afrikaans with English subtitles.

Directed by Oliver Schmitz.

Mapantsula is the first anti-apartheid feature film by, for and about black South Africans. Mapantsula tells the story of Panic, a petty gangster who inevitably becomes caught up in the growing anti-apartheid struggle and has to choose between individual gain and a united stand against the system. This film was endorsed by the ANC, banned by South African apartheid censors and acclaimed at film festivals around the world.

Mobutu: King of Zaire

Democratic Republic of Congo. 1999. 150 minutes. DVD

Directed by Thierry Michel.

This is the definitive visual record of the rise and fall of Joseph Désiré Mobutu, ruler of Zaire (now The Democratic Republic of Congo) for over 30 years. Drawing upon 140 hours of rare archival material found in Kinshasa, and 50 hours of interviews with those once close to him, Mobutu: King of Zaire tells the story of the man at the heart of central African's post-colonial history.

Monday's Girls

1993. DVD

Monday's Girls explores the conflict between modern individualism and traditional communities in today's Africa through the eyes of two young Waikiriki women from the Niger delta. Although both come from leading families in the same large island town, Florence looks at the iria women's initiation ceremony as an honor, while Azikiwe, who has lived in the city for ten years, sees it as an indignity. Ngozi Onwurah, director of such feminist classics as Coffee Coloured Children and Body Beautiful, herself an Anglo-Nigerian, turns a wry but sympathetic eye on the cross-cultural confusions.

Moolaadé

2004. 120 minutes. DVD

French with English subtitles.

Directed by Ousmane Sembene.

In an African village this is the day when six 4-9-year-old girls are to be circumcised. All children know that the operation is horrible torture and sometimes lethal, and all adults know that some circumcised women can only give birth by Caesarean section. Two of the girls have drowned themselves in the well to escape the operation. The four other girls seek "magical protection" (moolaadé) by a woman (Colle) who seven years before refused to have her daughter circumcised. Moolaadé is indicated by a coloured rope. But no one would dare step over and fetch the children. Moolaadé can only be revoked by Colle herself. Her husband's relatives persuade him to whip her in public into revoking. Opposite groups of women shout to her to revoke or to be steadfast, but no woman interferes. When Colle is at the wedge of fainting, the merchant takes action and stops the maltreatment. Therefore he is hunted out of the village and, when out of sight, murdered.

The film emphasizes Islam's kinship with Christianity and Judaism and looks at diverse interpretations of Islam among the Muslim people.

Nelson Mandela: Countdown to Freedom

1995. 110 minutes. DVD

Produced by Anant Singh

This film chronicles the ten days leading up to and following South Africa's first free and fair multi-racial elections, an event of historical importance marking the end of decades of Apartheid rule in South Africa. It was produced at Nelson Mandela's personal invitation who promised unique access and editorial autonomy because of his expectation that the news coverage would be superficial. Countdown To Freedom takes up Mandela's challenge to go beneath the surface and behind the scenes to examine how his unprecedented campaign was run, explore the meaning and importance of democracy in South Africa, and cover the campaigns as well as the issues they evoked.

Nelson Mandela: Hero for All

1995. 60 minutes. DVD

Produced by Anant Singh

In a world hungry for heroes and positive role models, South Africa's Nelson Mandela stands apart as one of the most admired leaders in the world, truly the man of the millennium. As he stepped down from office after five years leading his country from apartheid to democracy, Mandela's message is an example that resonates worldwide. This is the timely inside story of his farewell tour in the United States and Canada that inspired millions.

2008. DVD

Ndeyaan

Senegal. 2002. 90 minutes. DVD

Wolof with English subtitles.

Directed and produced by Mansour Sora Wade.

In a mythical pre-colonial village fishing village on the south coast of Senegal, a strange ocean mist hangs over the waters for weeks and the local fishermen fear to go out to sea. One son of a wise elder, after his father's death decides to take his boat onto the waters and returns when the mists lift with a full catch. He has become a hero, and has won the heart of the prettiest girl in the village, but has also won the envy of his best friend, who also covets the girl. When the friend murders the hero, and drags the body to sea, no one in the village explicitly accuses him. But within months the girl agrees to marry him. Immediately after the marriage tells him that she is pregnant, that she wants no sexual relationship and that he will raise his victim's son as his own as the price of forgiveness. Painful as her price for forgiveness turns out to be, that is not enough for the ghost of the victim.

Night of Truth (The)

Burkina Faso/France. 2004. 100 minutes. Color. DVD
This award-winning feature debut by one of Africa's most talented Female directors takes place in a unnamed country, where two peoples, the ruling Nayak and the opposition Bonandes, have finally embarked on a path to peace after a decade of atrocities. To commemorate the reconciliation, a celebratory feast is planned. But with each side haunted by memories of the past, will the night of truth bring understanding – or revenge?

Noble Desire

2001. 60 minutes. DVD
This one-hour program features the historic efforts of Benin's quest for reconciliation. Benin's President, Mathieu Kerekou, invited representatives of slave merchants as well as victims of the African diaspora to participate in an event where apologies were made for the role of their ancestors in the Atlantic Slave Trade. Europeans and Americans also attended and sought forgiveness from displaced Africans. Three hundred people attended including the President of Ghana, nearly 50 African Kings, two members of the U. S. Congress, delegations from several European nations, and members of the African diaspora.

Noble Desire: A Time for Healing

2001. 30 minutes. DVD
This half-hour film is a follow up to Noble Desire. This film encourages thoughtful discussion about the Reconciliation and Development Conference in Benin; the potential impact of this event on the residents of the United States; and the roles and responsibilities of your community as a whole, as well as its individual residents, in fostering social justice and racial reconciliation.

Nuba Conversations

Sudan. 2001. 55 minutes. VHS DVD
Nuba and Arabic with English subtitles.
Produced and directed by Arthur Howes.

This film was shot ten years after Kafi's Story (Also available in the UW African Studies Program video library). British filmmaker Arthur Howes re-entered the Sudan clandestinely to find out what had happened to the Nuba of Torogi. Everywhere he encountered the face of Islamic jihad or holy war. For example, a remarkable television program, Fields of sacrifice celebrates that week's casualties in the war against the Nuba and features family members thanking Allah for having taken their sons and brothers as martyrs.

Nuit Noire 17 Octobre 1961

2005. DVD
A scared young French 'flic', his violently racist colleagues, a polite Algerian schoolboy, a scrupulous police sergeant, a tenacious journalist, hot-blooded merciless FLN-militants (FLN = the National Liberation Front of Algeria), a naive school teacher, a nasty chief of police and a ruthless police prefect are all featuring in a possible string of events leading up to an actual piece of French-Algerian history: the bloody confrontation between a peaceful, 20,000 strong FLN-demonstration and a bloodthirsty police mob in the streets of Paris, on the night of October 17, 1961.

Oberlin-Inanda: The Life and Times of John L. Dube

South Africa. 2002. 55 minutes. DVD
Shot in Oberlin (Ohio) and in Inanda (S. Africa) this film features the life and work of John Lagalibalele Dube (1871-1946) pioneer educator, journalist, musician, churchman and politician who co-founded the African National Congress in 1912 and served as its first president until 1917. Oberlin- Inanda connects Dube's American education with his struggle for political and economical independence and celebrates his enduring legacy in today's democratic South Africa. This film is a tribute to the township of Inanda, the place which nurtured not only John Dube but also Mahatma Gandhi and his Satyagraha movement in the early 1900's and other movements for Social Justice in South Africa.

Routes of Rhythm with Harry Belafonte, The

1990. 171 minutes. DVD

A three-part historical survey of the African musical roots of Latin Jazz, Salsa, and popular genres. Featuring narration by Harry Belafonte, this documentary traces the evolution of Latin Music from Africa itself into the twentieth century with the advent of Afro-Cuban Jazz (or Latin Jazz) and later the advent of Latin pop sounds by such artists as Gloria Estefan. A musical journey for historians, musicians, and music lovers alike.

Sand and Sorrow

2008. 94 minutes. DVD

Executive produces and narrated by George Clooney, this film details the historical events that have given rise to the Arab-dominated Darfur government's willingness to kill and displace its own indigenous African people, and examines the international community's "legacy of failure" to respond to such profound crimes against humanity in the past. Offering unparalleled access to a contingent of African Union peacekeeping forces, the film provides an exclusive look at the situation on the ground as this disturbing chapter in human history unfolds.

Sankofa

1993. 125 minutes. DVD

A self-absorbed Black American fashion model on a photo shoot in Africa is spiritually transported back to a plantation in the West Indies where she experiences first-hand the physical and psychic horrors of chattel slavery, and eventually the redemptive power of community and rebellion as she becomes a member of a freedom-seeking Maroon colony.

Satin rouge

Tunisia. 2002. 100 minutes.

~~A widowed Tunisian seamstress takes an unlikely journey of self-discovery in writer-director Raja Amari's sumptuous and sensual Satin rouge. While investigating a suspected liaison between her headstrong teenaged daughter and a cabaret musician, young widow Lilia becomes drawn to an exotic nightclub netherworld of Rubénesque belly dancers and nocturnal pleasure-seekers. She strikes up a friendship a dancer, then eventually takes the stage herself quickly becoming the favorite of both cabaret patrons and the club's drummer. As she gradually sheds her shapeless, matronly house dresses for sequined bar-girl garb, she also begins to emerge from her cocoon of melancholy and loneliness.~~

Si-Gueriki

Benin. 2003. 63 minutes. DVD

Bariba and French with English subtitles.

Directed and produced by Idrissou Mora Kpai.

Si-Gueriki is a documentary where the subject matter seems to discover the filmmaker in contrast to the filmmaker choosing the subject matter. The film was intended as a tribute to Kpai's late father, a wasangeri or member of the royal family of the Borgu people of northern Benin, by his son returning after a ten year residence in Europe. In the course of his investigations, Mora Kpai discovers the lives of his mother and sisters which had previously been invisible to him and decides to make a film about them instead. A tension runs through the film between the modern ideas the filmmaker has imbibed in the West and his pride in being the descendant of a wasangeri

Silence de la forêt, Le

2003. 93 minutes. VHS DVD

Le silence de la forêt is a film about the difficulty for even the most well-intentioned person to know and respect another culture. In this case, the problem is so acute that there is even heated debate over what to call that "other." This film is the first to focus on the exploitation and racism between more modern Africans and an autochthonous people, ironically reminiscent of the attitudes of European colonists towards Africans.

South Africa Belongs to Us

1980. 57 minutes. DVD

Archival film, interviews, eyewitness accounts, and dramatic reconstructions emphasize the achievements of the African people and the importance of their story.

Study in Africa: New Opportunities for American Students

1997. 27 minutes. VHS

Produced by National Consortium for Study in Africa.

This video offers an overview of several U.S. study programs at campuses in Ghana, Tanzania, Kenya, Zambia, Zimbabwe, and South Africa. There are interviews with African university faculty, administrators, and students. It answers questions about study programs and shows various scenes from the African campuses.

Here is an excerpt from student, Ahsiya Posner, "I feel like every day is a new adventure and I'm just kind of this sponge right now, soaking it all in and hoping that I will be able to bring some of the things I'm learning back home with me...just everything, sights, sounds, smells, tastes. It's all so different and its just making me so thankful, again and again, that I did have the courage to get up and leave campus to come here...because I'm living with families and I'm doing and instead of reading about it or listening to a lecture."

T-Shirt Travels: Cast Offs for Africa

Zambia. 2001. 57 minutes. DVD

Directed by Shantha Bloemen

Huge bales of American secondhand clothing are sold to African importers, putting African manufacturers out of business. Prof. Jeffrey Sachs, Harvard University Center for International Studies, and other experts discuss the history of colonialism, slavery and the depletion of Africa's natural resources. They draw the connection between this shameful legacy and the current huge debt. As African governments submit to IMF/World Bank's structural adjustments, people's benefits are drastically slashed, resulting in suffering from malnutrition, poor health care, inadequate schools and a crumbling infra-structure.

Taafe fanga (Skirt Power)

Mali. 1997. 98 minutes. DVD

Dogon with English subtitles.

Directed by Adama Drabo

Retells a Dogon myth about women taking power in their society. Using a traditional belief, the women band together to overthrow the men, and roles become reversed. The men suffer under the yoke of female work, while the women order them around. It is the children who eventually sort out the chaotic situation. Cinematography includes great visuals of the Dogon countryside, escarpments, villages, and ancient cliff dwellings.

Tableau ferrailles

Senegal. 1997. 85 minutes. DVD

French and Wolof with English subtitles.

Directed by Moussa Sene Absa.

Through the story of Daam, a well-meaning but weak politician, we see the conflicts between traditional African life and modern Africa. Through the unfolding narrative, subtle commentary is offered on the problems of economic development in Africa and the pitfalls of greed.

Thunderbolt

Nigeria. 2000. 105 minutes. DVD

Thunderbolt is one of the best examples of the little-known but burgeoning video industry in Nigeria. Unlike African art cinema, these lively, popular videos are created for and financed by a mass market in Nigeria. Thunderbolt rises above the soap opera-like plot of a typical video by attempting to tackle the political theme of national unity. Thunderbolt will make you think about tribalism, the values and dangers of traditional African medicine, and the possibilities of magic. Preceded by three representative trailers from the Nigerian video industry.

It is one of the most shameful stories of the post-Cold War world. Eight hundred thousand Tutsis were slaughtered by the Hutu majority in Rwanda while the West turned a blind eye. As the U.N.'s Genocide Convention-created to make sure genocide would never happen again-marks its 50th anniversary, Frontline examines the role of Britain, France, the U.S. and the U.N. as they ignored the warnings and evidence of impending massacre.

Tsotsi

2005. DVD

Set amidst the sprawling Johannesburg township of Soweto - where survival is the primary objective - TSOTSI traces six days in the life of a ruthless young gang leader who ends up caring for a baby accidentally kidnapped during a car-jacking. TSOTSI is a gritty and moving portrait of an angry young man living in a state of extreme urban deprivation. His world pumps with the raw energy of "Kwaito music" - the modern beat of the ghetto that reflects his troubled state of mind. The film is a psychological thriller in which the protagonist is compelled to confront his own brutal nature and face the consequences of his actions. It puts a human face on both the victims and the perpetrators of violent crime and is ultimately a story of hope and a triumph of love over rage.

White Gold

Kenya. 2014. 38 minutes. DVD

White Gold is a front-line exposé of the modern day ivory trade—its effect on African countries and wider regional stability, its potential to fund terrorism and its global reach. Produced by professionals from the conservation, filmmaking and security field, the film illustrates the awe-inspiring complexity, beauty and emotional intelligence of the elephant, Africa's most majestic and iconic wild animal. It documents how, as the demand for ivory escalates, the stakes rise for elephants, people and peace. And, amid growing speculation from analysts around the world that ivory is likely to have partially funded the September 2013 terrorist Massacre in Nairobi, Kenya, the film poses the question: is this luxury commodity really so desirable, considering the ugly reality of terrorism and looming species extinction?

Witches of Gambaga, The

Ghana. 2010. 55 minutes. DVD

Directed by Yaba Badoe.

The extraordinary story of a community of women condemned to live as witches in Northern Ghana. Made over the course of 5 years, this disturbing expose is the product of a collaboration between members of the 100 strong community of 'witches' and women's movement activists determined to end abusive practises and improve women's lives in Africa. Painful experience and insight come together to create an intimate portrait of the lives of women ostracised by their communities. Told largely by the women themselves, their incredible stories and struggles are conveyed to a wide range of audiences by the director's narration.

Without a Fight

Kenya. 2012. 55 minutes. DVD

Directed by Jason Arthurs

Without a Fight follows the moving story of soccer in the Kibera slum of Nairobi, Kenya. No one can say for certain how many people live there, but estimates suggest several hundred thousand, with half of the population under 15 years of age. Drug abuse is rife and outbursts of violent ethnic clashes fueled by poverty and politics are too common. Without a Fight shows a different side of Kibera. Following the story of two coaches and two players of rival soccer teams as they prepare for the championship final, the film shows how sport can uplift young leaders and prevent violence among at-risk youth.
